PREFACE

A Census of Population, Agriculture and Fisheries was taken by the Newfoundland Government in 1945. At the request of Newfoundland, the tabulation and publication of the results of this census have been carried out by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Volume I is the first of two volumes containing the final census figures, and is divided into three main parts. Part I presents population statistics classified by such subjects as sex, age, marital status, religion, birthplace, ethnic origin, citizenship, years of schooling, literacy and migration. Part II deals with the gainfully occupied and wage-earner population 14 years of age and over, while Part III presents information relating to dwellings, households and families.

Newfoundland became a province of Canada on March 31, 1949, and will be included in the Ninth Census of Canada in 1951.

Herbert Marshall

Dominion Statistician.

INTRODUCTION

Volume I of the Eleventh Census of Newfoundland and Labrador presents statistics of the population as of the census date, October 1, 1945. The data cover each of the main subjects of the population schedule grouped under three main headings (Part I.- Population Distributions by Sex, Age Groups, Marital Status, Religion, etc.; Part II.- Gainfully Occupied and Wage-Earners; and Part III.- Dwellings, Households and Families).

Part I classifies the population by such subjects as sex, age, marital status, religion, literacy, birthplace, citizenship, ethnic origin, school attendance, and migration, for Newfoundland as a whole and for the census districts. Tables are also included under several of these subjects giving information for individual towns and settlements.

The tables in Part II give figures relating to the gainfully occupied and wage-earner population 14 years of age and over. The gainfully occupied are classified by occupation and industry according to such characteristics as age, sex, marital status, years of schooling, industrial status, and amount of income for the 12 months prior to the census date, October 1, 1945. Wage-earners are shown by selected occupations and industries according to average earnings in each pay period and weeks of unemployment during the 12 months ending September 30, 1945. This information is given primarily for Newfoundland as a whole, although a certain amount of the data is presented for the city of St. John's as well as for the census districts.

Part III deals with dwellings, households and families, and gives figures for Newfoundland as a whole, for each of the 25 districts, and for the larger centres of population. In addition, a special cross-classification of dwellings by type has been made for the city of St. John's.

The following sections include descriptions of the legislation under which the census was taken, the methods of collecting the data, and definitions and explanations of the subject matter appearing in the tables. In the appendices will be found a copy of the Population Schedule, a map of Newfoundland and Labrador, showing the census districts, and an alphabetical index of place names.

Legislation: The Census Act, 1935, provided for the taking of "a census and statistical return of the population and industries of the Colony, whenever the Governor in Commission deemed it expedient", with authority for the taking of the Census vested in the Commissioner for Public Health and Welfare. A ten-year period had elapsed since the taking of the previous census in 1935. (For a chronological list of Censuses of Newfoundland prior to 1935 see Volume 1, Census of Newfoundland and Labrador, 1935, Appendix A.)

Organization: Under the terms of the Census Act, Newfoundland was divided into twenty-five Census Districts (including Labrador), and each District further sub-divided into Census Sections. A supervisory "Census Officer" was appointed for each district, and an enumerator for each section. In all, 254 enumerators were appointed, distributed as follows among the twenty-five districts:

White Bay, 10; Green Bay, 10; Grand Falls, 12; Twillingate, 8; Fogo, 11; Bonavista North, 10; Bonavista South, 8; Trinity North, 10; Trinity South, 13; Carbonear-Bay de Verde, 12; Harbour Grace, 6; Port de Grave, 9; Harbour Main-Bell Island, 13; St. John's West, 21; St. John's East, 10; Ferryland, 8; Placentia and St. Mary's, 7; Placentia West, 9; Burin, 7; Fortune Bay-Hermitage, 12; Burgeo and La Poile, 8; St. Georges - Port-au-Port, 9; Humber, 13; St. Barbe, 7; Labrador, 11.

Date for Recording the Population: The date selected for beginning the enumeration of the population was Monday, October 1, 1945. Every person born before midnight on September 30, and every person dying after that hour was counted in the population.

The "de jure" method: The census was taken on the "de jure" principle. Briefly, this means that each person is counted as belonging to the locality in which he is regularly domiciled, irrespective of where he may be at the date of the enumeration. Students and hospital patients were assigned to their home localities, while children in orphanages or delinquent homes, and prisoners in penitentiaries were counted where found.

Census Schedules: The schedules from which this volume was compiled were three in number:

- (1) The Population Schedule, Form CE1, on which the details for each person were entered. Questions were included covering sex, marital status, age, birthplace, nationality, ethnic origin, religion, literacy, school attendance, place of residence in 1935, and years of immediate past residence in Newfoundland. In addition, a number of inquiries dealt with occupation, employment and earnings. Finally, every head of household was required to answer a group of questions describing the home.
- (2) The Individual Population Schedule, Form CE2, which supplemented Form CE1, and contained most of the same questions. This form was left to be completed by persons, very often lodgers, in the household, who were absent when the enumerator called, and for whom the respondent was unable to give the necessary information. The form was collected at a later date and the information added to the proper line on the Population schedule.
- (3) The Displaced Persons Form, Form CE9, which was used to list persons not habitually resident in the enumerator's Section.

Secrecy: The answers given by the individual to census questions were held absolutely confidential. Every enumerator and every other officer and person employed in the execution of any duty under the Census Act was bound by special oath and penalty against divulging any fact whatsoever that may have been learned through the census.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

Part I

Population Distributions by Sex, Age, Marital Status, Religion, etc.

Marital Status: In censuses previous to 1945, the classification of marital status included single (i.e. had never been married), married and widowed. In 1945, this classification was extended to show persons who were divorced.

Age: The age recorded on the schedule for every person one year old or more was the age in completed years at the last birthday. In the case of infants under one year, the entry was to be expressed in completed months as twelfths of a year. A fifteen-day-old child would thus be reported as 0/12 and one two months and ten days old would be reported as 2/12.

Birthplace: Enumerators were instructed to report the birthplace of persons born in Newfoundland according to the name of the district of birth. If the district was not known, the name of the settlement was to be given. For persons born outside Newfoundland the country of birth was to be given.

Nationality: Every person was required to report the name of the country to which he owed allegiance. British subjects were to be designated as "Newfoundland", "England", "South Africa", "Canada", etc., as the case may be. For persons owing allegiance to a foreign country, the name of the country was recorded.

Ethnic Origin: The term "ethnic origin", for census purposes, deals with the sources from which the population has been derived, and is very often different from the person's nationality. For example, a person may be reported as being a citizen of Newfoundland, but his ethnic origin may be English, Irish, Scottish, etc.

Literacy: Every person enumerated was asked if he could read and write, not only his own name, but whether he had a knowledge of reading and writing. For persons who could read and write, the entry was "R W"; for those who could read only, the entry was "R"; and for persons who could neither read nor write, the entry was "No".

Years of Schooling and School Attendance: The total number of years of schooling was entered for every person. Those who were not attending school were required to give their age on leaving school. Those who were attending school were asked how many months they were in school during the past year.

Religious Denominations: An answer was required in this column for every person. Any one 17 years of age or over who objected to being classed in religion by the parent was permitted to name his or her own religion.

Movement of Population: In order to obtain statistics of the movement of population in Newfoundland, special questions were asked. All persons 10 years of age and over were asked to state their place of residence in 1935, giving the name of the district or settlement if in Newfoundland, or the name of the country if residing outside of Newfoundland at that date.

Part II

Gainfully Occupied and Wage-Earners

(a) Gainfully Occupied

Gainfully Occupied: A gainfully occupied person, for census purposes, is one who owns or operates a farm, mine, fishing gear, or other business, such as a store, repair shop, restaurant, etc., or is engaged in a trade or profession, such as a carpenter, plumber, doctor, dentist, lawyer, etc., with or without paid assistance as well as one who is employed by others on a wage, salary, commission, piece rate, or no pay basis. A person who has been employed or engaged in the manner outlined above is considered as gainfully occupied even though unemployed for some period prior to the census date providing he intends to seek gainful employment subsequent to that date. Children not attending school and employed most of the time at some occupation or who regularly assist parents in the operation of a farm, store, etc., with or without pay, are also considered as gainfully occupied. However, children working at home merely on general household duties or at odd times at other work as well as women doing housework in their own homes without salary or wages are not included with the gainfully occupied.

Occupation Inquiry: Enumerators were instructed to report precisely the "present regular" occupation of every gainfully occupied person at the time of the census. Thus, a person whose regular occupation was "fisherman" but who was temporarily occupied as a "logger" at the time of the census would be reported as "fisherman" whereas a person occasionally employed as a "fisherman" would be reported as a "logger" if the latter was his regular occupation.

Industry Inquiry: In addition to the "present regular" occupation reported, each gainfully occupied person was asked to state the nature of the industry in which this occupation was carried on. It was pointed out to the enumerators that the same occupation might be found in entirely different industries. "A mechanic", for example, "may belong to the mining industry or to the automobile repair industry and a fisherman may be engaged in the cod fishing industry or the herring fishing industry".

Occupational versus Industrial Classification: The gainfully occupied are classified by occupation and industry in the tables of this volume. The group titles in these tables are similar but the composition of the groups is different. For example, the group "Manufacturing", in industry tables, includes all persons employed by manufacturing firms, whether engaged in the processes of production, or in the sale or transport of the product, or in clerical or other occupations associated with the industry. On the other hand, the occupation tables in this volume include in the group "manufacturing" only such persons as follow so-called "processing" occupations, that is, occupations in which they are directly engaged in the process of manufacture or repair. All persons following such occupations are classified in this group, irrespective of whether they were employed by manufacturing firms or by mining, construction, transportation, etc., companies at the time of the census. Similarly, the groups "Construction" and "Transportation", for example, in industry tables include all persons employed in these industries irrespective of the nature of their occupations, while the occupational groups, "Construction" and "Transportation", appearing in the occupation tables, comprise only those persons who were following construction trades and transport occupations, respectively, at the census date, regardless of the industries in which they were employed.

It might be mentioned that persons in clerical occupations have been assigned a separate place in the tables, while labourers in other than primary pursuits appear in a residuary group in these tables. Since the term "labourer", so reported, gives no indication of the type of work performed, it cannot be classified under any of the occupation groups shown in the tables. Even a knowledge of the industry in which employed does not supply the necessary information on the type of work performed by a person reported as a labourer. A labourer in a steel mill, for example, might be working in a construction, transport, etc., type of occupation rather than in an occupation directly concerned with the process of manufacture.

Income Inquiry: Enumerators were instructed to report "the total income of every person from all sources", i.e., money received as salary, wages, commission, interest, pension, dividend, profit from the operation of a business, etc. The total income received was to be for the period of 12 months ending September 30, 1945. However, in those cases where figures were not available for this period, enumerators were to accept total income figures for the most recent twelve-month period for which figures were available.

It should be mentioned that income figures are published in this volume for gainfully occupied persons, 14 years of age and over, only. The inclusion of similar data for non-gainfully occupied persons would have added very little worthwhile information since fewer than 2,000 persons in the latter category reported income at the time of the census.

Industrial Status of Gainfully Occupied: Gainfully occupied persons are classified in this volume according to the manner in which they carried on their business or the manner in which they were employed by others, i.e., whether they were occupied in an employer, own account, wage-earner, or no pay capacity. These terms are defined as follows:

- (a) Employer: An employer is a person who operates his own business and employs others therein. However, a person who manages a business for someone else and in so doing has the authority to hire employees, as well as the person who operates his own business merely with the aid of unpaid help (namely, unpaid family workers), is not an employer.

- (b) Own account: An own account person is one who operates his own business without the assistance of wage or salaried employees. However, he may be aided by unpaid help.
- (c) Wage-earner: A wage-earner is a person who works for an employer on a salary, wage, commission, or piece rate basis.
- (d) No pay: A no pay worker is a gainfully occupied person who receives no specified cash pay in return for his work. This class includes chiefly family workers on farms, in the fishing industry, in stores, etc., as well as some employees of institutions and religious orders who receive room and board but no specified money for their services.

Classes of Not Gainfully Occupied: All persons 14 years of age and over, excluded from the gainfully occupied as defined above, are shown separately in Table 43 of this volume where they are classified by age according to the following classes:

- (a) Home-makers, i.e., women doing housework in their own home, without salary or wage, and having no other employment. This class includes a few single women keeping house for parents or relatives but, of course, does not include housewives who have some gainful occupation. Therefore, since a housewife, engaged chiefly in some economic activity during the census year, is considered as gainfully occupied, it is evident that the term "home-maker" is not exactly synonymous with that of "housewife".
- (b) Retired, i.e., persons who had at one time been gainfully occupied but who, on account of old age, permanent physical disability, or other cause, no longer had a gainful occupation at the time of the census and did not anticipate accepting further employment in the future.
- (c) Students, i.e., young persons, 14 years of age and over, regularly attending school, college, university or receiving private tuition, including any who are earning money after school as messengers, newsboys, etc. Only when not attending school and employed most of the day in some gainful employment would they be considered as gainfully occupied.
- (d) Inmates of Institutions: Inmates of institutions at the date of the census were segregated for purposes of census classification without reference to their economic status at the census date and are shown in Table 43 as part of the "not gainfully occupied" category. Persons in prisons, reformatories, jails, penitentiaries, mental institutions, veterans hospitals, and places for the aged, incurable, and feeble-minded, i.e., persons in institutions in which they are restrained by force of law or in which they remain for long periods of time, are considered as inmates of institutions for this purpose. Staffs of these and other institutions as well as members of such institutional households as convents, monasteries, etc., at the time of the census are, of course, included with the gainfully occupied population.

- (e) No occupation: This is a residual class which includes all persons 14 years of age and over who were neither gainfully occupied nor members of one of the not gainfully occupied classes shown above.

Nomadic Indians: In view of the difficulty experienced in classifying Indians as gainfully occupied or as not gainfully occupied, it was thought best to show those 14 years of age and over in a separate category in Table 43 without reference as to their economic status. Those, 14 years of age and over, who were gainfully occupied at the time of the census are, therefore, excluded from the gainfully occupied and wage-earner statistics in this volume.

(b) Wage-Earners

Wage-earner: See "Industrial Status" for definition of this term.

Present Wage Rate: In order to obtain some statistical data on wage-rates, two columns were included on the Population Census Schedule for this purpose. In the first of these columns the enumerator was required to enter the wage rate paid to each wage-earner, while in the second he was to state the period to which the amount reported was applicable. Wage rates were to be reported for the hour, day, week, fortnight, month, and year, depending upon the condition of employment in each case. Persons hired by the year were to report a per annum rate rather than a rate for the month, fortnight, etc., even though they were actually paid at monthly, fortnightly, etc., intervals.

It was apparent, from the rates reported on the schedules, that some wage-earners stated an amount and a pay period other than the one which formed the basis of their employment and which was used as the basic rate for calculating their periodic pay. Thus wage-earners hired by the year reported, at times, a monthly rate and pay period, those hired by the hour reported a weekly, fortnightly, or monthly, rate and pay period, etc., because their pay cheque covered such periods of time. However, the basic rate received by the individual is generally reflected in the rate reported even though occasionally it is for a period other than that of actual employment.

Part III

Dwellings, Households and Families

Dwelling: A dwelling is a structurally separate set of living premises such as a single house, one section of a semi-detached house or row, or each apartment or flat in a building containing apartments and flats. Hotels, institutions, lumber camps, etc., have been excluded from all tables relating to dwellings and households except table 60 which is an historical table.

Household: A household consists of all the persons living in a dwelling, irrespective of whether or not they are related to each other by ties of kinship. Since only one household occupies a dwelling, the number of households is the same as the number of occupied dwellings.

Family: A family consists of a husband and wife (with or without children) or a parent with an unmarried child (or children) living together within a household. Single persons, 25 years of age and over, reported as sons or daughters of heads of families, are not included in the number of children in the family, but are included in the count of "persons in families".

Types of Households: The household, in many cases, consists of a private family, i.e., husband and wife with or without children, but individual lodgers, lodging families, and domestics may also be included. These differences are of some importance in the analysis of housing data, and for certain tabulations it has been desirable to establish a breakdown of households according to types. These types were as follows:

- (a) Single family Household: A household which contains one but only one family as defined above is called a "single family" household.
- (b) Multiple Family Household: A household which contains two or more families as defined above is called a "multiple family" household.
- (c) Non-family Household: A household whose members do not form a family group is called a "non-family" household. This household type includes the following cases: (a) one person living alone; (b) two or more unrelated persons living together; and (c) two or more related persons living together who do not constitute a family as defined above - e.g., two or more brothers and sisters.

Rooms Occupied: Only rooms used as living quarters have been counted. Thus halls, closets, bathrooms, pantries and alcoves were excluded, while attics, basements, sunrooms and verandahs were included only when suitably enclosed and equipped for all-year living purposes.

Crowded Household: A crowded household has been rather arbitrarily defined as a household with less than one room per person, i.e. one in which the number of persons exceeds the number of rooms occupied. This criterion of crowding admittedly leaves out of consideration some important factors relating to genuine crowding, such as floor space, cupboard space, age and sex differences within the household. However, the loss by using this simplified approach is not as great as it might at first appear. General trends in crowding are reflected with a fair degree of accuracy, and comparisons in the extent of crowding between similar types of localities can be made with some assurance.

Value of Owner-occupied Dwellings: The value of an owner-occupied dwelling is the actual value as of October 1, 1945, and includes the value of the land on which the dwelling is built.

Monthly Rent: This figure is the actual money rent payable for September, 1945.

NOTE:

A dot represents 200 people. Individual settlements with populations of more than 3000 are shown by discs proportionate in area to the dot. Lesser settlements are shown by concentrations of dots.

(1) Under the terms of the House of Assembly Act of 1932, 22 Geo.V., Chapter 7, 24 districts (exclusive of Labrador) were set up in Newfoundland. Previous to that date, there were 18 districts. The populations of these 18 districts from 1836 to 1911 are shown in Table 3, page 11 of Volume I of the 1935 Census of Newfoundland and Labrador.

(1) For comparative purposes with earlier censuses, the settlements shown in this table comprise the same areas as those shown in Tables 30 and 31 of Volume I of the 1935 Census of Newfoundland.

(2) Refers to Bell Island as a whole, and includes such settlements as Lance Cove, Freshwater and West Mines (see page 8).

(3) The population shown for St. John's City represents the number living within the incorporated limits of the city. Figures sometimes given for St. John's include a one-mile strip outside the legal boundaries which, although not actually part of the city, has lately been included for such purposes as town planning, etc. This area includes parts of the following census sections: Boggy Hall, Freshwater Valley, Kilbride, Major's Path, Nagle's Hill, Quidi Vidi and Southside. The population of St. John's, including all of these sections, amounts to 57,496. Some of the sections extend beyond the one-mile fringes but it is not possible to show the population for the parts strictly within this limit.

(4) Formerly called Grand Falls Station.

APPENDIX C.

Index of Names

The following index lists the names of the districts, towns and settlements of Newfoundland and indicates the page numbers at which census data will be found in the tables. The list of towns and settlements is arranged in alphabetical order and shows the district in which each is located. For example, the settlement of Abraham's Cove is shown as follows:

Abraham's Cove 22 11, 40, 62, 86, 102

These entries indicate that Abraham's Cove is located in District No. 22 (i.e. St. George's-Port-au-Port, as shown below), and that figures by sex, age, marital status, etc., will be found at pages 11, 40, 62, 86, and 102.
